

Wanted: You to be a sport leader!

Being involved in sport and recreation and taking on leadership roles are very rewarding, both for you and your organisation. Sport and recreation needs more women to continue along the leadership pathway so that women are represented at all levels of sport delivery and management.

Whether you are a board/committee member, administrator, coach, official or a volunteer this one day workshop is designed to help you in your leadership role or to take the next step of involvement.

The expert presenter is Henny Oldenhove from Canberra. Henny has much experience in women's sport as a consultant, public servant (with the Australian Sports Commission and the ACT Government), planner, facilitator and a volunteer at local and national level.

The workshop covers such topics as:

- ✓ What is leadership?
- ✓ What are the different leadership styles?
- ✓ What are the leadership opportunities and pathways in sport and recreation?
- ✓ Networking
- ✓ Identifying and using mentors
- ✓ Effective communications including the media relationship
- ✓ Managing conflict
- ✓ Developing a personal plan

The workshop will provide participants with the opportunity to discuss common issues, share stories and develop networks and contacts. Why not come along, take time to reflect where you are and where you want to go as a leader and spend one busy day to invest in some time for you!
